SAYS AMERICAN NOTE TWISTED BY WAR LORDS

Tells Probers Peace-Seeking Nation Would Have Accepted U. S. Terms.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—Cor. Hull declared today the Japanese were "hell-bent" for war in November, 1941, and rejected a 10-point American note he said they peace-seeking nation would have been "delighted to accept."

The 74-year-old former secretary of war, testifying before a Senate House committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster, said the Nov. 26 note he handed the Japanese had been "ignorantly misrepresented."

Japanese propagandists later called it an American "ultimatum." The Army Pearl Harbor board said the delivery of the note may have started the war.

"There has been more misrepresentation and more ignorant misrepresentation—unintentional, no doubt—about the significance of this last proposal of ours than of any move we made," Hull testified.

He said the 10-point note brought together the general principles on which the United States had been insisting since diplomatic talks began with the Japanese six months earlier. He added that five of the ten points offered direct benefits to Japan.

"The only trouble with this note was that the Japanese were bent—if I hadn't noticed the presence of ladies here I'd say hell-bent—on carrying ahead their military policy," the former cabinet member said grimly.

The Nov. 26 note, Hull continued, was drafted and delivered after it was decided not to offer the Japanese a temporary agreement.

Hull said the state department still said to say "no" and stop right there when the Japanese presented on Nov. 20, 1941 what he described as "the most extreme" demands they had made in six months of discussions.

U. S. Wanted Time

"Our policy was x x x to grab every straw x x x to give time for preparation to our Army and Navy and to our prospective Allies."

He said the form of a proposed temporary agreement was given consideration under which the American plan of peaceful cooperation would be discussed further. He said the Japanese were "offered a little chicken" in this temporary agreement.

The proposal was not offered, he said, largely because of Chinese and British opposition. The Chinese, he added, made a "terrible attack" on the proposal and Prime Minister Churchill "went the whole distance" in contending acceptance by the Japanese would cause the collapse of the Chung Kai-shek government in China.

The hopes that the Japanese would accept the temporary agreement were small, in any event, Hull testified.

He said the Japanese war lords had whipped their people to a war fever while this country "unfortunately was divided" in its views.

Barkley Carious

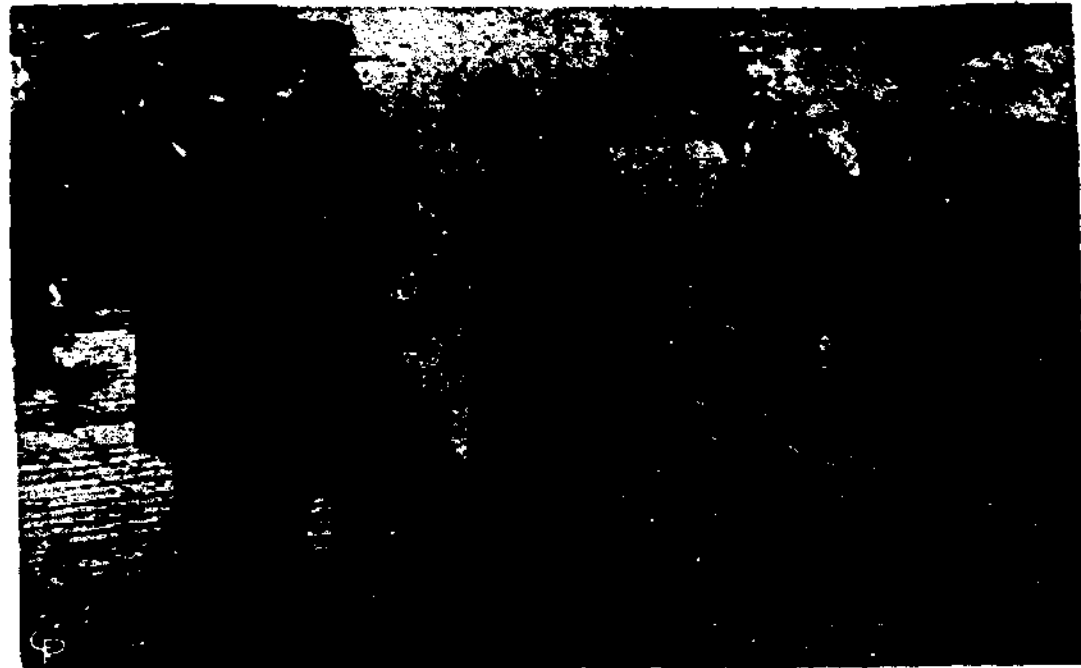

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky.) asked the former cabinet official if he had talked with the late President Roosevelt about keeping the secret of Pearl Harbor late in 1941. Hull replied Mr. Roosevelt had asked him about the psychological effect of the attack on the Japanese. At that time, he said, he and the Japanese officials did not know what secret relations existed between the Axis nations.

PEARL HARBOR LAID TO NAZIS

U. S. Charges Germany Egged Japs To Attack; Nazi "Incident" Plot Bared.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—Evidence designed to show that German leaders incited Japan to make the attack on Pearl Harbor was placed before the international war crimes tribunal today by the American prosecutors.

The documents were added by the tribunal to the mounting pile of Hitler's war plans which included cold-blooded schemes to assassinate the German envoy in Prague as a pretext for invasion of Czechoslovakia, to overrun Poland, seize the Low Countries and to attack Russia.

American prosecutors in the trial of 20 leading Nazis produced notes of talks between Hitler and Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka several months before the Pearl Harbor attack and asserted their evidence will show these Nazi conspirators incited and kept up a force that could reasonably be expected to result in war with the United States.

Charges War Plan

Assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman produced a memorandum signed by a German General Thomas saying war with Russia was necessary to provide food for the German army. Alderman charged the German high command's plan to systematically starve millions of Russians in occupied areas as "one of the most sinister on record."

A detailed plot to assassinate a German diplomat to create an "incident" calculated to result in invasion of Czechoslovakia was made by Hitler and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German staff.

Truman Pays Tribute To General Marshall

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—President Truman today honored Gen. George C. Marshall as the man who gave the nation victory and "takes his place at the head of the great commanders of history."

These words were from the citation accompanying award of an Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Service Medal won by Marshall in the first World War. The citation was read by Mr. Truman.

Marshall has just retired after six years as chief of staff, to be succeeded by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

VOTE RECOUNT BEGUN TODAY

All School Bond Issue Ballots To Be Rechecked by Election Board.

Work of recounting ballots cast in Marion city and township on the city school bond issue in the Nov. 6 election was begun at 10 a. m. today at the offices of the Marion county board of elections, by the board of elections and deputy clerks.

When 15 precincts had been recounted shortly after noon the favorable votes had lost six and the opposed votes had gained seven.

It is believed the recount will be completed by late this afternoon.

Requested by Sponsors

The recount is being made at the request of the Marion Civic Planning Group, sponsors of the school bond issue and other civic improvement issues in the recent election, after election returns showed that the school project lost by only six votes. The sum of $320 was deposited with the election board by the planning group at the time the recount was requested.

Thomas W. Rayburn, local architect, representative of opponents of the bond proposal, was present today as the votes were being recounted. Members of the Planning group are not having a representative present. It is the privilege of interested persons or organizations to witness the recount, the board states.

Method of Procedure

Only the school bond votes will be counted in the 30 city and two township precincts. After a precinct is recounted the percentage of error, if any, is figured. If errors of two per cent are found, either for or against the issue, the board can not assess the $10 recount fee for that precinct. If the recount reveals a shift of votes from no to yes the issue will pass, but a greater number of favorable votes will be needed to reach the required 65 per cent if errors are found which change the total number of votes cast.

The recount is being made by members of the board of elections, James F. Lauer of Prospect, chairman, George Thomas of Prospect, and Russell M. Wilhelm and Mrs. Cora Rexroth of Marion, and deputy clerks Mrs. Nora Fetter and Kenneth Fields of Marion.

CONGRESS DEBATE ON "UNO" STARTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—Congress begins debate today on a bill to make this country an actual member of the United Nations.

Other committees turned their attention to UNRRA and President Truman's war powers.

The United Nations bill puts into black and white just how this country will carry on its membership. One provision would make available a quota of American troops to be used when necessary to put down a would-be Hitler. Still another bill, however, will have to fix the number of troops in that category.

Democratic Senator Tom Connally of Texas and Republican Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, who helped write the United Nations charter at San Francisco, and behind the bill.

Forecast Victory

There are possible fights ahead over amendments, but Connally told reporters he thinks the amendments will be beaten. The house will act later.

Striking out all restrictive amendments, the senate appropriations committee approved a $350,000,000 fund for the UNRRA. This represented the final installment on the original United States commitment of $1,350,000,000.

Restrictive amendments were rejected by the senate appropriations committee.

Democratic foreign affairs committee today approved legislation authorizing an additional appropriation of $1,350,000,000 for activities of UNRRA.

The legislation does not appropriate any additional funds, but a separate bill carrying an appropriation is under consideration by the house appropriations committee.

The house judiciary committee stamped its okay on a six-month extension of Mr. Truman's emergency war powers, now due to expire Dec. 31, but added:

"It is the determination of Congress to recapture those powers as speedily as may be wise, so that they may be again exercised in accordance with the slower but more desirable processes of democracy."

Senate Pay Rate

Meanwhile, Senator Dawson (D-Kent) wrote a letter to each of his colleagues saying he wants them to vote a 10 per cent pay raise for Congress and the Supreme Court.

Chairman Frank (D-Mo.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee said he would support the pay raise, but only if the Senate also passed a bill to raise the pay of the judges.

He said the Senate should not pass a bill to raise the pay of the judges unless it also passed a bill to raise the pay of the judges.

THREE PLEAD GUILTY BEFORE JUDGE SMITH

One Gets Prison Term, Two Placed on Probation.

Three men indicted by the September term of the grand jury last Wednesday were arraigned before Judge Paul D. Smith in common pleas court this morning.

Arthur L. Little, 48, indicted on a charge of forgery, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to from one to ten years in Ohio penitentiary.

Albert Harris, 30, indicted on a charge of breaking and entering, pleaded guilty and upon recommendation of the prosecutor was placed on probation for three years. He must report to the court once each week during the first six months, twice each month during the next year, and once each month during the last year and one half. He has been given 60 days in which to pay the costs of the case and to restore money stolen.

Raymond Eches, 21, indicted on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, entered a plea of not guilty but upon advice of counsel, George T. Geras, changed his plea to guilty. ## WARD WORKERS LAUNCH STRIKE; GM GETS BID

Start Week's Stoppage at Mail Order House; Auto Workers Ask Parley.

By The Associated Press
Montgomery Ward and Co. returned to the labor scene today as 75,000 CIO employees of the big mail order house began a one-week "demonstration" strike.

A new move was made by the CIO Automobile Workers as the General Motors walkout, idling 200,000 went into its sixth day.

At Detroit, the UAW-CIO reiterated its demand that negotiations with General Motors Corp. for a 30 per cent wage increase be resumed in the full glare of publicity.

Union officials predicted 248,000 workers would be idle in the GM dispute the day was over, workers and 73,000 salaried employees kept away from their jobs by pickets.

575,000 Idle

A break came in the northwest Pacific lumber tieup which has kept 60,000 AFL unionists away from their jobs since Sept. 24. In Maine, 2,800 CIO textile workers resolved their difference with two cotton mill operators, but 7,200 employees of seven other mills remained on strike.

Telephone service in Illinois and two northern Indiana counties was back to normal after the company and 8,700 operators compromised the wage dispute.

Idle Total Rises

Altogether, 575,000 workers were idle in labor disputes across the nation. Other major ones involved 10,000 AFL and CIO machinists in San Francisco, a strike which has kept 30,000 other workers off their jobs, and 4,300 Greyhound bus drivers in 26 states.

Immediately involved in the Ward strike were members of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employees (CIO) in Chicago, Detroit, Albany and Jamaica, N. Y., Denver and Kansas City. Other CIO unions have been asked to picket more than 600 Ward stores and mail order outlets in 42 states.

At issue are the union's demands for a closed shop, check off of union dues and wage increases.

It appeared 4,000 of the 60,000 idle AFL lumber and sawmill workers in Oregon, Washington, Montana and northern California might go back to work soon. A union policy committee has recommended acceptance of a 15-cent hourly wage increase.

Illinois and Indiana Bell Telephone Co. operators accepted a $4 weekly wage increase, retroactive to May 9, and got the promise of an additional $2 weekly by Feb. 1. A shutdown of three Seattle

School Pupils Get Ready for Two-Day Bond Sale

Join in Nationwide Victory Loan Drive To Provide Hospital Units for Wounded War Veterans.

Pupils in all Marion public and parochial schools today were preparing to play their part in the Victory Loan Campaign.

In all the schools material for the pupils' part in the drive was distributed, including application blanks for bonds. The blanks are for use by parents and others intending to buy bonds through the schools.

The specific goal of the pupils will be to raise $60,000 through bond sales to equip 20 complete hospital units to care for wounded veterans returning from overseas battlefields.

Nationwide Campaign

In the drive Marion pupils will be joining other school students in all parts of the country. The national goal for the school drive is 35,000 complete hospital units, costing $3,000 each.

The school campaign is being conducted by the school activities committee of the Marion County War Finance Committee headed by Cecil W. Gabler, principal of Vernon Junior High school.

Activity in the schools today will lead up to an intensive two-day campaign among high school and elementary school pupils Wednesday and Thursday and a house-to-house canvass of the city starting Friday.

Full Cooperation Urged

Parents of school pupils and other residents of the city have been urged by the War Finance Committee to buy bonds through the school pupils. The house-to-house canvass will be the only organized bond sale effort of the eighth loan outside of the payroll deduction plan in shops and business places.

Quotas for the school drive are set on an individual school basis. Harding High school pupils will attempt to sell sufficient bonds to equip five complete hospital units. Vernon Junior high will try for two and Central, and Edison and St. Mary one each.

Schools selling sufficient bonds to equip a $3,000 unit will have their names engraved on a tablet to be placed in the hospital rooms equipped.

Schools selling less than $3,000 will have their names placed in a "Schools for Peace" publication.

ROBBERY HAUL SAID TO BE AT LEAST $15,000

4 Masked Men with Unmasked Leader Hold Up Club and 10 Customers.

The Palm Supper club, dining and gambling emporium in the heart of Bucyrus, was the scene of a holdup early Sunday morning when five armed men robbed the management and approximately 100 customers of an undetermined amount of money.

The bandits, armed with tommy guns, revolvers and sawed-off shotguns, entered the establishment about 1 a. m. Sunday and proceeded with their looting in a calm and professional manner.

Details of the robbery were available today from victimized patrons only. Bucyrus Police Chief Arthur Stuckert said no report of the holdup had been made to the police department. He said he would make an investigation.

Estimates of the amount of money obtained ranged from $15,000 to $50,000. These figures were only guesses, however, since the amount taken from patrons could not be determined and the management made no statement on the house's loss.

Speedy Entry Effected

The robbers entered by the front entrance quickly unlocked the door at their approach.

Four of the five men were masked with handkerchiefs over the lower part of their faces. The fifth, and apparently the leader of the gang, was unmasked.

On entering the first of several rooms in the establishment, the leader announced, "This is a stickup. It isn't any joke."

He then ordered patrons to stand up with their hands in the air. Patrons were advised not to be alarmed, the leader saying he wanted only the house's money.

As other members of the gang went through various rooms containing bingo, roulette, dice and chuck-a-luck games, they apparently were disappointed in the amount of house money located. The leader then ordered the patrons to turn their faces to the wall, telling them "we didn't get enough. We will have to have yours."

Ordered To Shell Out

The unmasked leader mounted a table and ordered the patrons to file past, emptying their billfolds and pockets as they passed.

This operation continued for some time when it was abruptly stopped. How many of the patrons had been relieved of their cash could not be estimated, but some were said to have remained in the line when the leader called a halt.

In the meantime the leader called the doorman around at the back of the house and ordered him to get the manager.

It is thought that robbery of the patrons stopped when the manager produced house cash in quantities more to the gang's liking. It also was reported the robbers looted considerable money by prying the locked money boxes from the gambling tables.

Manager Skipped

Patrons later saw the manager, A. F. "Que" Tupper, with a gun across his forehead and blood on his face. He had been struck with the butt of a gun.

It was estimated that the robbers took about a half hour to complete their work. They then fled in a dark car.

Some of the patrons who were robbed said they were not hurt. Others said they were not hurt. Others said they were not hurt.

Operation of Marion Canteen To Be Discontinued Friday

Uncertainty of Troop Train Schedules Brings Work for Servicemen and Women to Close.

The Marion Canteen for Servicemen and Women operated at the union station during the war years will close Friday, it was announced today by Mrs. O. G. Stephenson, chairman of the volunteer canteen workers.

Uncertainty of troop train schedules and a lack of funds for servicing, which make it difficult to provide necessary food and supplies, were the main reasons for discontinuing the canteen.

Mrs. Stephenson stated in a letter to E. L. Christman, head of the Marion Community Foundation, Inc., that the canteen is a participating agency of the United States War Relocation Authority.

The canteen was organized in 1942 and has since that time been operating as a voluntary agency.

CHIANG MAPS DRIVE TO BENEFIT MASSES

By The Associated Press
CHUNGKING, Nov. 26—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek created a supreme economic council today to extricate China from the financial morass of war and civil strife.

As his armies drove on toward the prize industrial city of Hankow in Manchuria without challenge from his Communist rivals, the war-torn Chinese leader placed his nation's post-war economic destiny in these hands:

President T. V. Soong as chairman of his new economic council, Vice President Wang Wen-hao as vice chairman.

Chiang created the council to coordinate the country's economic and financial policies and to supervise the execution of the government's economic program.

The council will be composed of representatives of the government, the military, and the business community.

Chiang said the council will be responsible for the country's economic and financial policies and for the execution of the government's economic program.

Piles Are Never "Mild"
DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" ailment.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

were in our own waters, our own territory, on our side of the Pacific, pursuing a perfectly peaceful course."

Earlier the ailing secretary testified today he believed the state department was "thoroughly justified in wanting the fleet kept at Pearl Harbor."

The former cabinet officer took the stand before a senate-house committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster for an hour's questioning.

In response to a question from Gerhard Gessel, committee counsel, about the state department's attitude, Hull said:

"We felt that it would be more or less useful, especially after the fleet was based at Pearl Harbor, that it remain there during the critical state of relations with certain other nations—Japan especially."

Describes Enemy

"We were dealing with one of the worst international desperadoes within the memory of man. He was at large, on a rampage, dangerous, treacherous and undependable in every way."

"It was a little more wholesome in the many matters under discussion for our Navy to be standing there."

Hull said "from all tangible and intangible reactions" he had received he was convinced the state department was "thoroughly justified" in that viewpoint.

Gessel reminded the witness that Admiral Richardson, then commander in chief of the fleet, had testified that he warned Washington officials the security of the fleet was endangered by its remaining in Hawaiian waters.

"I don't remember at any time that any person suggested the idea that the fleet couldn't protect itself," Hull replied.

Shoots Deer in Michigan

Mrs. Helen Ross of Central Park, Mich., formerly of near Prospect shot a 180-pound buck deer on Nov. 21 according to a letter written to John Joles of South High street. In the letter she described the buck as being a four-pointed. She used a 16-gauge shotgun and brought the deer down with the first shot. Not content with that, she told Mr. Joles she had the animal skinned and dressed before her husband, "Mike" Ross, arrived on the scene. Mr. Ross was formerly secretary of the Fish and Game Association of Marion county.

Army-Navy National Title Battle to Wind Up Season

Trojans To Seek Rose Bowl Honors; Holy Cross Gets Bid to Orange Bowl.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 26—The college football campaign winds up with a grand flourish Saturday as the all-conquering Army Trojans clash with Navy's formidable Middles for the national championship.

The game of the year will find Army rated about a four-touchdown favorite to make unbeaten but once-tied Navy its 18th straight victim over a two-year period. The Greyhounds will be aiming to become the first West Point team in history to go through two seasons without a tie or a loss.

The Trojans of Southern California and the Texas university Longhorns will strive to gain their respective conference nominations for the Rose and Cotton Bowls.

Must Beat UCLA
The Trojans must defeat UCLA to win the Pacific Coast conference championship and the right to meet Alabama in the Pasadena classic. If the Trojans should lose, the Washington State Cougars, who finished their season Saturday with a 7-0 triumph over Washington, will grab the title. Southern California walloped Oregon State 34-7 in its last outing and has a 4-1 conference record. Washington State won six and lost two games.

Texas, leader of the Southwest conference race with a 4-1 slate,

LOOKS LIKE EAGLES, RAMS IN PRO FINALE

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 26—If the Eagles and Rams mean anything, it looks like the Philadelphia Eagles and Cleveland Rams may meet in the National Football league playoff for the professional grid title Dec. 16.

Cleveland is in. But Philadelphia's chances of meeting the Rams are a bit shaky. The Eagles can be beaten out of the playoff game by the Washington Redskins, although they dumped Sammy Baugh & Co., 16-0, yesterday. The two teams are tied for the eastern division lead with six wins and two losses each. The Eagles still must meet fourth place Boston Yanks and the third place Boston Yanks, Washington meets last-place Pittsburgh and New York.

Annual Sessions Of Big Ten Next Week

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 26—Western conference faculty representatives, the circuit's legislative body and athletic directors and coaches will hold their annual winter meeting here Dec. 6, 7 and 8. Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson announced.

In addition to arranging schedules, the meeting also will determine changes in wage-time policies necessary in returning Western conference athletes to a peace time basis. Among these will be a probable change in eligibility rules, which now allow a civilian athlete to compete four years.

LATIN WINS TITLE

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, Nov. 26—Cleveland Cathedral Latin Lions ended their second straight undefeated football season here Saturday by defeating St. Ignace High school 13 to 7 in the annual Cleveland Plain Dealer charity contest for the city scholastic title. A mammoth crowd of 55,356 fans saw Lemmy Lapka catch two Lion passes for the victory.

OSU, Indiana Split Honors on All-Big Ten

Amling, Cline and Thomas Win Top Laurels for Ohio State

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 26—The spirited competition of the Western conference football race was reflected today in the 1945 All-Big Ten team selected for The Associated Press by league coaches.

Northwestern was awarded two positions and Michigan, Purdue and Wisconsin one each in the poll of the nine conference mentors, who failed to agree on a single unanimous choice.

Closest the coaches came to seeing eye-to-eye was on two players—end Max Morris, Northwestern's versatile star, and Ohio State's great guard, Warren Amling. Each missed only one first team ballot for 17 of 18 possible votes.

The honor team, averaging 20 years in age and uniquely equipped with a backfield matching the line in average height at 197 pounds, included two first-year performers.

They were half-back George Taliaferro, Indiana's stellar Negro freshman, and guard James Lecture, an aerial gunner veteran of 67 combat missions over Europe before he enrolled at Northwestern.

In addition to Taliaferro, the all-star backfield included Pete Phios of Indiana, another returned war hero; Ed (Catfoot) Cody of Purdue and Ollie Cline of Ohio State, a bruising quarter with power and speed to burn.

Thomas Is Tackle
Paired with Morris at end was Ted Kluszewski of Indiana, who nosed out another Hoosier wingman, Bob Ravensberg, Ohio State's Russ Thomas, 223-pound senior, and Wisconsin's string-bean scrappier, Clarence Esser, who packs only 174 pounds on a six-foot, one-inch frame, were the tackle choices.

The center post went by a wide margin to Harold Watts, 175-pound Michigan veteran.

Phios, a 210-pound dynamo who was unanimous end choice on AP's 1943 all-conference, won the quarterback berth this time. Cline, 185-pound Buckeye battering ram from Fredericktown, Ohio, drew the most backfield votes, 14. In six league games, Cline carried the ball 119 times for 553 yards, the Big Ten's most yeoman performance.

Cody, squat Boilermaker galloper, won the other halfback berth by an eye-lash over Dick Fisher of Ohio State.

Taliaferro, the backfield "lightweight" at 185, was a one-man gang on a great Indiana team.

Morris, besides being a pass-catching threat, was a brilliant defensive performer and the play-making leader of Northwestern's surprising offensive. Boomed as the successor to All-America Bill Hackitt at Ohio State, Amling at times surpassed his great predecessor.

Lecture, a 216-pounder, barely edged Les Bingham of Illinois at guard, while Esser got a tussle for his tackle post from Purdue's Tom Hughes. Others who made strong first team bids were Fisher and halfback Dick Connors of Northwestern.

Purdue's Bill Canfield, a star pass-catching halfback, failed to win more than honorable mention.

At Miami Together
Both Tucker and Smith were teammates at Miami High in 1942 and although Smith has one entire season on Tucker in big time college football, Tucker is more advanced in the T formation. He was third string last year.

Navy adopted the T this fall and it was a new experience for Smith. It was not until the last two games that Comdr. Oscar Haagberg, Navy coach, decided to start Smith behind center in place of Bob Hoenschmeyer.

Smith produced with startling results, Navy showing its scoring punch for the first time this season with 33-7 and 36-7 victories over Michigan and Wisconsin, respectively.

Thus, it will be a battle of quarterback deception with Tucker and Smith at the controls. While Army has not been beaten since Navy turned the trick at West Point in 1943 by 13-0 and figures to win almost as it pleases, even against its arch foe, Navy is expected to be "up" for this one.

DRAKE STAR WINS IN CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

By The Associated Press
SAGINAW, Mich., Nov. 24—Fleet-footed Fred Feller of Drake university dashed to his second consecutive national collegiate cross-country championship on the Michigan State course four-mile course Saturday, running the distance in 21 minutes 14.2 seconds.

Just a year ago the Bucks gathered for their annual banquet and celebrated an unbeaten and untied season and the winning of the Big Ten title.

Tonight, however, there will be none of that. Indiana copped the championship by beating Purdue State, 7 to 3, in their 1945 finale.

Second In Two Years
The defeat was only the second for Ohio in two seasons of competition but it served to drop sixth, Harold W. Moore, University of Wisconsin, to third place in the final Big Ten standing. They won seventh, Notre Dame; eighth, Eastern Michigan; and ninth, Michigan State.

The Ohioans were within nine minutes of a 3 to 0 victory over the Wolverines Saturday but they couldn't halt Michigan after the men of Fritz Crisler pounded their way to a first down on the five-yard line and then sent

Bucks Will Banquet Tonight After Losing Big Ten Title

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26—Henry Fonde over from the one after an off-side penalty against Ohio.

Ohio's only points came in the third period as Max Schnitter place-kicked a field goal from the 17-yard line after the Bucks had moved into a threatening position only to have their running attack stall.

The Bucks had missed a touchdown in the second period by an eyelash. Racing into the end zone, Bud Kessler and Bob Nussbaumer of Michigan leaped into the air to grab a pass from Dick Fisher. They both were holding the ball when they fell to the ground but officials ruled Nussbaumer had the firmer grip and called it an intercepted pass.

Tough To Lose
When it was all over, Ohio Coach Carroll Widows called it "a tough one to lose" and admitted he had had a lot of anxious moments when the Bucks were trying to protect that narrow three-point lead.

The Ohio State-Michigan tilt wound up the Ohio collegiate grid season.

Oberlin which finished its season the first of November, is the state's only representative among the nation's unbeaten and untied teams.

Former Teammates To Run Deception in Clash of Undeclared Army and Navy Next Saturday

By FRANK ECK
AP Northwest Sports Writer

NEW YORK—When the unbeaten Army meets undefeated but once tied Navy in the No. 1 football game of the year at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, Saturday, Dec. 1, the last two players who handled the pigskin in the climactic 1944 clash will do most of the ball handling this time, Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis not excepted.

They are young Arnold Tucker of Army and C. Bruce Smith of Navy, quarterbacks of their teams and the men responsible for making the T click at the respective service academies.

At Miami Together
Both Tucker and Smith were teammates at Miami High in 1942 and although Smith has one entire season on Tucker in big time college football, Tucker is more advanced in the T formation. He was third string last year.

Navy adopted the T this fall and it was a new experience for Smith. It was not until the last two games that Comdr. Oscar Haagberg, Navy coach, decided to start Smith behind center in place of Bob Hoenschmeyer.

Nothing to Lose
Since the soldiers are rated the greatest collection ever to grace a gridiron the Middles have everything to gain and nothing to lose. With Blanchard and Davis, the Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside of All-America fame, getting most of the glory—and deserving it—in Army's march to 17 straight triumphs, the deeds of Tucker have been somewhat overshadowed. Everyone fails to realize that Tucker calls those West Point signals, is the chap who gets the ball from center and the same one who hands it to Blanchard and Davis.

Tucker and Smith were just about everything when they teamed up at Miami High. Smith captained the team and Tucker scored 122 points in nine games. Smith received a trophy as the school's most valuable athlete. Both selected military life, Smith going to Annapolis in 1943 while Tucker became a Navy-V-12 student at Miami university.

In 55 high school and collegiate games, Tucker has been on the losing side but twice, now at Miami High and once at Miami U. The logic in comparing Tucker and Smith is due to the fact that Blanchard and Davis are above anything Navy will have to offer.

HOOSIERS WIN FIRST BIG TEN CROWN IN FIFTY YEAR HISTORY

Swamp Purdue 26-0 While Michigan Edges O. S. U. Ex-Champs 7-3.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 26—Indiana has a freshly polished Big Ten trophy in its trophy case, along with the Hoosiers' Western conference football crown in the 50-year history of the cult.

The football reads: Indiana, Purdue 0. That bucket, an ancient trophy in the ancient rivalry between the Hoosiers and Buckeye makers, held a special meaning this year, because if Indiana hadn't beaten Purdue Saturday, there's no championship for Coach A. N. (Bo) McMillan's boys.

It took a tight aerial defense and more than two quarters of wall-carrying for Indiana to wade down stubborn Purdue. The Hoosiers clinched the conference title when Michigan was beating Ohio's State's defending champions, 7-3.

Minnesota wound up its dismal season in more than two decades by dropping a 26-12 decision to Wisconsin—its fifth in a row to conference foes. Northwestern closed its season with a 13-7 victory over injury-ridden Illinois.

Nebraska defeated Iowa 19-0.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

DICKY put up his hands in a burlesque submission. "Kamerad! Mea Culpa! And all the rest of it," he intoned. "Take a nap if you need one, Jack, and I will be waiting at the switch when you awaken."

I did not answer him, simply closed my eyes and leaned back, willing myself to compose in the fashion of Galathea's beloved Aunt Ann Forsythe.

When I opened them again two minutes later, I found my husband's eyes, and those of Jack and Katharine, watching me with affectionate concern.

"Sure you're all right," Dicky queried. "Of course old Jack and I were looking, you know. Don't spoon a single lentil unless you feel like it."

"I'm perfectly all right," I told them, sitting erect. "And I wouldn't miss your faces when I recite this story for a good round sum. Katharine, you needn't listen if you don't want to. You've heard it before."

"Add I'm all ears to hear it again," Katharine said. "It's a story that will bear repeating."

How about your ears, Dicky? I asked my husband, smiling. "Part of this will be old stuff to you, for I'm beginning with George's call down here to bid Mary an eternal farewell."

Wouldn't Miss II?

"I wouldn't miss that part for worlds," my husband replied. "Especially as I shall have to correct you on the fact that the door accidentally was left ajar. Out of the corner of my eye, I saw you insert the toe of one of your client's tootsies into the crack."

I rose to the bait as I generally do to teasing.

"Dicky, I said indignantly. "You know I never—"

A bout of laughter greeted my dismayed protest, and I shook my fist at my widely grinning husband.

"Sometime you'll learn," Katharine said, and then I settled back into my chair and began my story of George, all of which was new to Jack, and for parts of which Dicky was eagerly waiting.

I began with George's farewell interview with Mary, on which Dicky and I had been involuntary eavesdroppers because of the inadvertently unlatched door, and Jack laughed as heartily as Dicky and Katharine had done over the rocking slap Mary had given him, her deflationary arraignment of him, and her advice to him to "make a big play for Ollie."

Hiding in Hallway

He and the others laughed also at the word picture I drew of George's hiding in the hallway with his plaint that he could not bear to face the Veritizens with his heart so bruised for Mary.

"For 'heart' substitute 'face,'" Jack said slyly, and I nodded, going on to my first airy treatment for George, and my finding in the boys' bathroom the scribbled sheets of paper which he had dropped, and not missed until some time afterward.

Jack leaned toward me, his face puzzled.

"Didn't you say," he queried, "that those papers contained code memoranda he is to take to Olga's son Pietro, if he ever finds the lad?"

"Yes, they did," I said, and Dicky and Jack exchanged significant glances, those of strong, competent, conscientious men weighing a weaker one.

"I've been thinking that same thought for some time now, Jack," Dicky said. "I don't believe Glamorous George's Porgy will ever quite grow up."

"At least that thought won't have to trouble you for awhile, Dicky-bird," Katharine said comfortingly.

Then she turned to me. "He is finally gone, isn't he?" she asked.

"Absolutely," I said, "and I haven't but a minute to skim you the top cream of the jest, for Mary and Noel are likely to come up here any second."

The telephone punctuated my sentence, and, answering it, I heard Mary's voice. "Is the coast all clear?" she asked.

YOUR HEALTH
By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Glaucoma

Many disorders affecting the eye are not understood very well by most persons. For example, many people do not know much about the condition called glaucoma. This is a disorder of the eye that may cause blindness. The exact cause of glaucoma is not known. In this condition there is an increase in the pressure of the fluids in the eyeball.

glaucoma have been presented. Doctor William N. Hahn of Omaha thinks that blindness may be prevented in the majority of cases of glaucoma if treatment is given early. This treatment includes the correction of disturbances of the glands of internal secretion and regulation of the bowels.

The patient should avoid emotional upsets and is instructed to avoid dark rooms, to stay outdoors on bright days to discontinue the use of stimulating beverages, and to carry out home treatment prescribed by the doctor carefully.

Certain drugs known as miotics are employed in the treatment of glaucoma. Miotics contract the pupil of the eye. One of these miotics is pilocarpine. It is put directly into the eye by the doctor and acts by stimulating contraction of the eye muscles. Now and then, after prolonged use, the eyeball may become inflamed, due to irritation from the drug. For this reason Doctor Hahn prefers to administer pilocarpine in the form of an ointment at night.

Another drug known as eserine or physostigmine may also be employed. It is more powerful and longer lasting than pilocarpine. In employing it, it is put into the eye by the doctor every minute for five minutes. Then the procedure is repeated in an hour and again after two or three hours.

Another drug known as mecholyl may be employed, together with physostigmine bromide, particularly if the glaucoma is chronic or long continued. Ephedrine and similar substances are also used in the treatment of glaucoma, and are particularly helpful in cases of chronic glaucoma in which the normal pressure in the eye cannot be controlled with the miotics.

Of course, all treatment of this sort should be carried out under the directions of an eye specialist. Glaucoma is a serious condition and one which requires prompt and intelligent treatment.

FOREST LAWN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH was the scene of the wedding of Miss Evelyn Converse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Converse of 140 Dix avenue, and Ralph L. Barkley, Sunday afternoon. The couple repeated the single ring service read by the bride's brother, Rev. Roy D. Converse, pastor of the Speed Memorial church at Speed 1st.

Tall white bachelors filled with white gladioli and purple and palms backed the altar and formed a setting for the tall lighted tapers in seven-branched candelabra. Preceding the opening music at 3:30 o'clock, Mrs. William Ackerman, Jr., played a half-hour musical program and Herman Powelson sang. The organ numbers included "On Promise Me," DeKoven, "Indian Love Call," Friml, "I Bring a Love Song," Rumberg, "At Dawn," Gounod, "Sanctus," "Gounod and O Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star," Wagner. During the ceremony she played "O Perfect Love," Burleigh, and for the processional and recessional the traditional wedding marches. Mr. Powelson's selections were "Estrellita," Ponce and "I Love You Truly," Bond.

Miss Converse escorted her daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her bridal gown of lustrous brocade satin was made princess style, fashioned with a scalloped neckline and long sleeves ending in points at the wrist. The long full skirt terminated in a wide circular train. Her double tiered fingertip veil of unimported illusion was gathered into a tiara trimmed with tiny seed pearls and her hair

The couple will make their home on the Upper Sandusky pike. Both Mr. Barkley and his bride were graduated from Harding High school. Mrs. Barkley is employed as a clerk in the office of the City Loan Co. and Mr. Barkley is engaged with his father in farming.

Guests at the wedding dinner included the bride and bridegroom Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dixon, Rev. and Mrs. Roy D. Converse and daughter, Betty Jean, Rev. and Mrs. L. V. Baugess and daughter, Louise, Mr. and Mrs. John Barkley, Mr. and Mrs. Howard and Schwaner, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Barkley, Miss Mary, Jean and Helen Barkley, Barbara Whitrow, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Philbrick, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barkley, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Barkley and Edward Converse.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barkley were hosts at the dinner. The bride's gown was a burnt honey color and fastened on the shoulders to the bride's. She wore a veil trimmed with a wide band of matching material and carried an arm bouquet of yellow and orange shaded pom-poms. The bride's niece, Betty Jean Converse, who was the flower girl, wore a long frock of Bunchins crepe in a luminous green shade with short puffed sleeves and her headress was a halo of yellow and orange pom-poms matching the flowers in her small bouquet.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barkley of the Upper Sandusky pike, was his father, and ushers were his brothers, Glenn and Donald Barkley who also lighted the tapers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Converse chose a navy blue costume with white trim, and her flowers were a shoulder corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom's mother wore a black gown trimmed in white. Her flowers were a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Converse were hosts at a dinner for the bridal party and immediate families at Ringer's Inn, and later the couple left on a wedding trip through the south. For traveling the bride wore a fuchsia costume with which she combined a black hat and accessories and pinned to her short fur jacket was the gardenia corsage from her bridal bouquet.

★ About that old prescription Dr. Jones wrote for you two years ago. The bottle is on the shelf in your medicine cabinet, about one-fourth full. It would be safer for you and your family to discard it. Someone might take it by mistake, or a child may be attracted to it by the bright color and do himself harm. Many medicines deteriorate after exposure to light and air. On long standing, some compounds change their chemical structure. Yes, the safe thing to do is to throw it away. If illness again overtakes you, see your doctor. Bring his prescriptions to us for accurate compounding.

Trial and Error

ABANDONMENT of the wartime rationing program, except for sugar and tires, closes a chapter in trial and error. Rationing began with tires, one month after Pearl Harbor. At its peak, the program was kept going by approximately a quarter of a million persons, four-fifths of them volunteers. It cost every man, woman and child considerably more than $1 each year to maintain this control.

OPA rules, interpretations and the inevitable inconsistencies bound to occur in any attempt to impose regulations on a large and widely scattered population were the chief topic of conversation during the war. Next to the war itself, no other subject claimed as much space and time in newspapers and radio. It was the one necessity of wartime survival that was shared universally. Many were spared the direct impact of wartime sacrifices—and many saw to it that they spared themselves—but every citizen was affected by rationing. The black market flourished and became a candidate for public problem No. 1, but for the great majority of consumers it never was of great consequence.

It will be contended, no doubt, in recapitulations of the government's wartime successes that without rationing the war would have been lost. Be that as it may, and rationing undoubtedly was needed to win a war whose grand strategy called for wholesale export of American commodities to our allies, there were many things about the way rationing was handled which, by hindsight, could stand improvement. As the program comes to its close, nothing would be more reassuring to the millions who worked with it and for it than to hear that a thorough study would be made of all its aspects in the four years of its operation, with the view of having available a better plan for whatever future emergency may arise.

When Washington's Ox Is Gored

THE Truman administration's promptness in coming to the rescue of Washington bus and street car riders when the capital was held up by its second transportation strike in a month provides a thoughtful interlude for the rest of the country. When Washington's ox is gored, there is no academic discussion of theory, but a quick showdown.

Industrial strikes in Washington are unheard of, for the simple reason that Washington is not an industrial city. There are no General Motors branches in the capital, for example. But if a transportation strike can disturb Washington to the point of action, it is easy to imagine what might happen if the seat of the federal government were Detroit.

Strikes in that event might cease to seem to be misfortunes that happen in localities remote from the White House and the Capitol and become, in government opinion, what they clearly are in fact—tragedies inflicted on cities and industries. There might be less careful attention to handling them in a political manner guaranteed to alienate a minimum of votes and more careful attention to handling them in a manner calculated to preserve the general welfare from the arbitrary decisions of any minority. The fact is, as Washington seems to have discovered in its transportation strike, that the unrestrained use of the strike weapon is hurting the American public and giving organized labor a black eye.

The great danger is not interference with production, great as that is, but interference with confidence in the ability of existing organizations to find answers to public problems. The United States is not immune to the ferments that have disrupted order and discipline in other nations, but if it is lucky, the United States will recognize that moderation is a better bet for an orderly future than extremism. If organized labor insists on striking when it feels like it, regardless of its contracts, the public, as organized in its government, will have to insist on something being done about it.

Bevin the Blunt

IT MAY be that Ernest Bevin, Britain's foreign minister, has been underestimated in his new role as an error his contemporaries in British domestic affairs quit making years ago. His outspoken appeal for frank statements of intent by the United States, Russia and Great Britain, so the international air can be cleared of suspicion, sounds like statesmanship. His bluntness may clear the air.

While the appeal does not take into account the fact that some of the suspicion has been generated by discrepancies between supposedly frank statements of intent, such as the Atlantic Charter, and subsequent actions, Mr. Bevin seems to be talking about something more specific. He presumably wants the Big Three to do what he says he is willing to do as Britain's spokesman in foreign affairs; namely, to talk about territorial aims and ambitions.

Mr. Bevin may be unable to carry it off. But unless someone can carry it off, there is no likelihood of breaking the stalemate that threatens to keep the great powers stalled in what were to have been a cooperative effort to achieve security by mutual understanding and action.

Union Seen in Wave of Strikes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—Intelligent thinking people are asking themselves (and me) why these strikes develop, ebb and flow so systematically through the country.

They cannot see why in a time of world crisis when the necessity is great for the nation to succeed with her reconversion and production, there should be any strikes at all. The muddled announcements and talk about fears of inflation, unemployment and other future catastrophes, leaves them hopelessly confused. They want to know the answer.

The first point glaringly evident behind the situation is that labor is a completely controlled entity, a centrally managed, thoroughly disciplined, wholly directed group in national life.

It is set up like an army with a general headquarters, boards of strategy, publicity departments, field officers, organizers like recruiting officers, and the union man himself is like a private in the ranks. He has no more rights than an army private.

In view of this condition, it is necessary to look beyond the claims made for individual strikes in any search for an answer as to why they occur. The Washington bus and railway strike, for instance, which finally, and because of recurrence, caused the government to force the lines, involved an old case, unsettled for many months.

There would seem to be no reason why the strike was called first the day the national labor management conference assembled here to discuss and arrange a conclusive peace pact.

Question of Timing

What I specially mean is no necessity arose at that particular time involving any of the factors of the case to warrant a walk-out. No government agency had denied anything just the day before, or anything like that.

The case of the CIO auto workers involved their many months old demand for a 30 per cent wage increase. Long range, indirect negotiations had strained and broken many times, but singularly enough, this strike call developed also the day the labor-management conference reached its deadlock.

The orders were issued within a few hours after the deadlock became apparent within the conference and before any announcement was permitted to leak to the public press. (It was published two days later.)

New talk and threats of the telephone strike in various sections started about the same time, developing along the same lines.

These facts, I think, are further evidence of what I have suggested before, namely, that labor has developed new tactics. Up to this point, strikes, labor management was largely an uncentralized operation. It functioned in a democratic way in what might be called a democratic process.

On the one hand was the AFL and on the other the CIO, and in their function they could be likened to the Democratic and Republican parties in the nation, one a majority, the other a minority.

Following the analogy through similarity, the other independent unions could be likened to the minority parties which have only a few scattered votes. In theory one acted as a bulwark against the other, a restraint to keep it on the right path. It never functioned in a totalitarian way or under centralized control, or at least its actions never showed symptoms of such a system.

Act in Conjunction

This time the old conservative AFL street workers acted simultaneously with the great CIO body of auto workers. I do not charge collusion.

To try to dig inside that situation to find the proof, would be as tedious as pursuing an electrically magnetized needle through all the nation's haystacks. But the results came out that way as everyone can see.

I must therefore conclude that the strikes were called against the conference, therefore against Mr. Truman and against the government. They were simply manifestations of organized labor pressure. This is my answer.

No other conclusion seems possible from logical analysis, particularly since they were called immediately after management came forward with a program to make labor responsible for its actions.

The program took up many suggestions you have seen published in this column, including proposals for legislation establishing the principle of union responsibility, including abandonment of its immunity under the anti-trust laws, the right to sue and be sued, and equal responsibility under the national labor relations act.

The proposals did not involve any settlement of the wage controversy or other elements involved in a particular strike discussion, but merely laid down the program of union responsibility.

Now, if all these facts are true, as I have said, the ultimate crisis has arrived. The laborer, on the one hand you have evidence of union centralization of controls on a national scale, but at the same time a union refusal to accept any legal responsibility for exercising those controls.

This then, is the time the government and the country must decide where they are going. If the position of the unions is maintained, the economy and the politics of the nation will be exercised by them. If no settlement is reached, their controls can continue to be maintained. The decision cannot be delayed one way or another.

These are the symptoms behind the situation as I see it and the explanation of why strikes have so systematically developed. (Copyright, 1945, New York Tribune, Inc.)

The People Speak

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—The Labor-Management conference is learning something that Congressmen have known for a long, long time—the public can think up more brain-busters in an hour than that old Philadelphia lawyer can figure out in a decade.

For instance, a nearby Marylander would like to see labor guaranteed 2,000 hours' work a year at a minimum wage of 75 cents an hour.

After that, labor would get 20 per cent of the net profits from any company after the investors had picked up 6 per cent; and an additional 10 per cent after a 12 per cent return. Half of whatever is left, if anything, would also go to the workers.

Family as Yardstick

A Pennsylvania would like to see the wage yardstick based on the number of children in the family.

"The 40-hour week," wrote the father of six children, "may be all right for a man with a wife and maybe one or two kids, but what about the larger family? Couldn't management make wage adjustments according to the number of the worker's dependents?"

Some of the suggestions are as complicated as an Einstein theory. For instance, this one from Oklahoma:

"Man-hours worked by all clock workers versus units of stock."

After clock employees, he explained, would participate in the profits of a company in an equal amount with the stockholders—"so many man-hours worked against one unit of stock, based on wages earned and the actual cash originally put into working stock."

An organization which claims to represent the workers in 2,500 corporations suggests "a wage differential which automatically gears increased compensation to increased earnings—a governor-control to meet fluctuations of business of living standards without intensive warfare at every variance."

All Examined

Don't think that the conference is ignoring these baffling formulas. Some of them are addressed to the conference in general; some to Labor Secretary Schwelb; some to President Truman; but all are getting a "thank-you" note in reply. Conference employees are juggling the whole batch; all of those which seem to have a real merit—and many do—are passed along for the serious consideration of the conferees.

So far there's one suggestion that hasn't been acted upon. That is that the conference print copies of Edgar Guest's poem "Labor, Capital, and Place" on each of the desks of the conferees.

"It would help promote a bit of unity and understanding," says a Michigan woman.

There are a few persons around the conference table who won't readily admit that they could use a poem.

Predicts Red Triumph in Italy

Official Urges Action by U. S. and Britain

BY KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Correspondent

ROME—A high American official in Rome has reported to the United States government that if present conditions long continue in Italy, Communism will triumph in that country, "possibly by force."

The comprehensive report submitted by this ranking American official recommends that the United States and Great Britain help Italy economically and accept the country as an equal member of the family of nations. The report warns that unless such a policy is pursued, Italy will come within the Russian sphere of influence in Europe.

The report states that "the ground in Italy is fertile for the rapid growth of the seeds of an unbridled movement fostered by Moscow to bring Italy within the sphere of Russian influence."

Hard to Block

The report further warns that the growth of Communism in that country cannot be blocked by restrictive or repressive measures.

"The conditions which engender it are both moral and material," the report says. "The only hope of restraining it in Italy is to ameliorate those conditions."

It is recommended that this be done by assisting Italy economically and lifting her morale by admitting her to a position of respect in the family of nations. "The people," the report continues, "are willing to abandon totalitarianism. The great majority of Italians desire to see a democratic Italy."

"They will only permit Communism to take hold because of fear, since that party is the best organized and best armed in the country, or because of apathy arising from a generation of non-participation in democratic political life the shame of defeat and the results of privation."

"Unless they receive help and guidance from the democracies, particularly the United States and

Daily Bible Thought

Some of us are not listening, however. We are not looking for wisdom, but rather try to justify our own foolish conduct. "Doth not wisdom cry, and understanding put forth her voice?"—Prov. 8:1.

Eager for Recess

WASHINGTON—Capitol Hill observers look for some action now on President Truman's 21-point legislative program. (What the action will be depends on what observer you are talking to.) Reason given, however, hasn't anything to do with pressure from the White House or administration leaders.

It's simply vacation was cut short by the end of the war, and congress is beginning to realize that if it wants to get home for Christmas, it had better get to do little humping on legislative matters now hanging fire.

Few congressmen have been able to make more than flying trips home since the pre-election campaigns of 1944. Political speculations on 1946 are beginning to pop up and have caused some members' ritter. There isn't much time for fence-mending and great-feeing.

Great Britain, they will inevitably turn to the USSR and join the group of police states united by Communism which is extending westward from Russia.

"It is in the material interests of the United States and Great Britain to prevent this."

"The policy," it adds, "should be one which will assist Italy towards recovery as a healthy nation. She must be allowed to emerge to the position of an active partner in the maintenance of post-war security. She can serve as a bastion of democracy in Southern Europe."

Warsaw—An Enigma of Ruins

Devastated, but Few Shops Open Have Lots of Food

BY SAM WAAGENAAR

International News Correspondent

WARSZAWA—In an entirely martyred Europe, the Polish capital stands out today as the most astonishing and incomprehensible enigma.

While the country is shot economically, and while no greater ruins can be found anywhere on this agonizing continent, the few shops that can be found in the center of Warsaw show an abundance of food as this correspondent has not seen for a very long time.

Coming from Berlin, which till now stood out as the climaxing finishing touch of destruction, the sight of Warsaw gives you a feeling of utter helplessness. Berlin seems like a paradise, when compared with the city on the Vistula.

Dust and Ruins

Where once were streets and squares, now only dust of ruins can be found. In the very center of the town stands a Church, surrounded by flattened rubble which once was the Warsaw ghetto. The Church stands there as a lugubrious flag on a city that is no more.

And yet, there is that astonishing miracle that Warsaw, in most drastic contrast with Berlin, has everything for sale. A meal in some of the restaurants brings the very best steaks any American has tasted for several years. The pastry is of a variety that cannot be found anywhere in Europe. And the menus in general show anything which a curious palate might desire.

Leica cameras, and other expensive photographic equipment, which in Berlin is sold "sotto voce" is attracting the passer-by's attention in the windows of over a dozen shops right in the center of the town.

Prices Are Fair

Prices may sound fantastic at first, but considering that there is nothing in the way of rate of exchange than the one that was valid before the war, even all these luxuries take on an air of regularity.

The Polish zloty sells officially at five to the dollar. At that rate life in Poland would be impossible. Thus a black market has been instituted, which seems to be semi-official. Dollars—if you are lucky enough to have them—are readily exchanged against about two hundred and twenty zloty. A meal costing some 500 Polish bills, will thus be taken care of by just a little over two dollars.

Traffic in Warsaw is negligible, even more so than in Berlin. Something on four wheels, that is supposed to take the place of a taxi will charge around fifty zloty to make a little trip. But a small motorcycle-taxi charged me yesterday 500 zloty to make a tour of about half-an-hour.

Opinions Differ

Politically Warsaw seems—at first, at least—entirely topsyturvy. Talking to four people, you get five different political opinions. Some people speak about a "monopoly democracy," while others will do their best to show you how Poland is definitely on the way to a better future.

A great many seem to be convinced that there is no future for Poland without close cooperation with Russia, while others again state that this might be true, but that there "should not be cooperation with Russia only."

Of one thing, everybody I have spoken to agreed upon. They all like America and Americans. After you have spoken for about an hour, and after this person has done everything in his power to praise Poland one way or the other, he will finish his conversation with the seemingly eternal question: "Do you think you can get me to America?"

Census Proposal

In a little publicized speech before the American Society for Public Administration the other day, Secretary of Commerce Walbridge Dillinger outlined his program for a more frequent sampling to keep census statistics of population, business and employment right up to date. His initial proposal is a complete business census in 1946. It would include full data on the number and kinds of businesses, employees, payrolls, credits, sales, expenses.

Too Much Worry?

Airline passengers are getting lighter—at least the Civil Aeronautics Administration thinks so. According to a new ruling, airline passengers will now be considered to average 160 pounds in summer and 165 pounds in winter. Heretofore passengers were considered to weigh an average of 170 pounds—the old fannies.

No More Than That?

Good News for the Deal

WALKIE-TALKIES for all are going into production at popular prices.

Don't say you weren't warned!

The news is depressing. What America needs is less talk, not more.

We are the grabbest nation on earth and getting worse by the minute. Radio, phone booths, street corners, jobs, the town, the impression that everybody is trying to talk at the same time.

The rarest thing in the country today is a man who keeps his trap shut.

"Silence is golden" was once a reliable American slogan. It was with high radio salaries. "Don't speak until spoken to" was once a top guide for the young, but the kids, blurted that long ago, due to the influence of the Quiz Kids.

The basic American idea used to be that a man should never sound off until sure he is right. The rule of the hour is to say it now and verify it later.

America is suffering from gas pains.

It would not be so bad if the folks would be in quiet, friendly tones. But they are yelling.

One of the breaks of this age is to get a peep at a couple of adults who are in deep sleep, just trying to think something out.

The war brought the menace of the atomic bomb, but the threat of the walkie-talkie in everyday life will run a close second. It adds fuel to the gas bags. Thousands of people who have had to be somewhat quiet will now be able to throw their voices all over the fields and hills.

It is declared that the walkie-talkies will be a boon to farmers, hunters, truck drivers, etc. The truck driver already is too busy listening to the radio to keep his mind on his driving, without being given the opportunity to phone while in motion.

And as for the hunters, they used to go into the woods for silence. Are they now to go into them for argument and rebuttal?

We tremble at the influence of the walkie-talkie in farm life. The farmers have been a pretty taciturn lot. Now the farmer in the dell, the milkmaid and Little Bo Peep will all be busy jabbering away at one another that not a cow will get milked.

Quick, Gideon, the ear lops!

Back Home Stuff

Frank Bergen, ex-Princeton quarterback, is now a court magistrate back home and making quite a record for homespun philosophy. The other day, replying to a woman's complaint that the smoke from a kerosene lamp made her apartment unhealthy, Frank came out as a defender of the lamp.

"What do you mean by that?" he demanded. "I grew up in the kerosene-lamp era, and never knew it to hurt anybody. Did you trim the wick? Do you realize that it takes a lot of work to keep a kerosene lamp in good condition, but that if you do it, it's fine?"

Which brings back memories of kerosene in our boyhood. There were some pretty beautiful ones. The parlor lamp was especially fine, wide and fancy. And trimming the wick was a nightly chore. Mom was forever polishing the globe. Looking back, they seem the loved old lamps in the world. We were sent often to the corner store for kerosene, and it just comes back to us how Lutz, the grocer, used to stick a pin over the spout as a cork.

Starting the Day

By Truman Twill

Anyone intending to start the day right ought to get out of bed, hurries through breakfast, gets going—full of great plans. There are no slouches in the morning. The nerves and the steam out of ambition.

There are no little scholars who must be exhorted to rise from their beds and leap to the daily call of educational duty—and who must still be exhorted half an hour later. No, there are any cases of the missing underwear or the missing left sock.

Nothing letting steam out of ambition, there is nothing so good as a missing left sock or missing underwear. There is nearly always one more sock to be found somewhere, but the headwork in highplaces there is a severe shortage of underwear and the scholastic careers of millions of young Americans hang there.

When the missing garment is located under the bathtub, nothing remains but to persuade the young scholar to cease toasting his toes in the register and get up at last with a good word will and a hey nonny ho. To this point the uninspired answer is, "Huh?" To the point of information that 10 short minutes remain, which to get dressed and eat breakfast, the answer also is "Huh?"

At last, the eager learner descends to the point of breakfast—hair uncombed, teeth unbrushed, put on sideways, one of the most trucks of the year, yet one that can be performed by uncounted millions of school children without even trying. Sleep has been routed, the little Rhodes scholar is beginning to rise, he spills his breakfast in his lap to start the day and has to be dry-cleaned.

He does not know where his hat is, he is probably left at the neighbor's. He is a wreck, which he swears to be found where there is a world of the house away. Overshoes, if any, are widely separated places. The same for 200 million is marching on.

Deadlines come and go. Nerves fray. Voices rise, and blood pressures. Here, Dagwoodian slapstick of good-natured, but a tense trial of cruel tortures to be stored heroically.

Finally, the little student is shoved through the door into a world of opportunity and ready has rejected categorically and another has been started—wrong. Realism is in fact. After all, why should anyone be in a hurry to

State Commander of Legion Speaks at Conference Here

Harry A. Eaton of Ashland Addresses Meeting of Sixth District at Hotel Harding.

Harry A. Eaton of Ashland, department commander of the American Legion of Ohio, was the principal speaker at the Sixth district conference of the American Legion Sunday at Hotel Harding.

"Are we giving our returning veterans a stimulating break or a stepping stone in helping them to return to civilian life?" Mr. Eaton asked in his talk concerning the help which must be given to the returning service-men.

He stated that 385,000 or 51.9 per cent of the enlisted or inducted personnel under 26 years of age had not completed the third year of high school at the time they entered the service. This calls for help from the people, he said.

In his talk concerning the war and the need for help now by the people of this country, Mr. Eaton said that in four years for the first five days of each week, we sold over five million tons of scrap metal to Japan, and on Sunday the people of the nation prayed to God to help China in its struggle against Japan. He explained that the Legion members and the Legion itself entered the service as part in the politics of this nation.

HARRY A. EATON

Baldwin President

The formal opening of the meeting was at 10 a. m. and registration began at 9:30. Gail Baldwin of Marysville, Sixth district commander, presided at both the morning and afternoon sessions.

The program opened in the morning with the posting of colors and prayer by District Chaplain Palmer. The preamble to the constitution of the Legion was given, followed by reports of the officers.

HOLDUP

patrons was able to tell whether the gang left a guard on the outside. It was considered likely, however, that if the robbers had planned to leave by the rear door they must have parked their directly in front of the police station.

Reports were current today that the robbers met and disarmed a Bucyrus policeman as they left the supper club by the back way. Police Chief Arthur Stuckert could not be reached by a long distance telephone call from Marion this morning and officers on the police desk said they could not confirm the report.

It was reported that the robbers met the policeman as they emerged from an alley along the back of the club. The man was starting around his beat, was disarmed, the reports said, and ordered to keep walking away from the scene of the robbery.

Operations Resumed

While the robbery put a decided crimp in conviviality at the club Sunday morning it wasn't allowed to interfere with operations last night. The club was reported to be open again for the usual Sunday night activities.

The Palm Supper club has been in operation for five or six years and is considered one of the most elaborate places of its kind in central Ohio.

It was badly damaged by fire a year ago but was redecorated and reopened. The club consists of several rooms, three of them being of the exclusive class of exclusiveness is achieved by fine furnishings, mural covered walls and heavy carpeting. It caters to what is generally termed the "exclusive" class of trade and has been one of the popular night spots for many Marion residents for a number of years.

Near Public Square

The club is located in the second floor of a building on South Sandusky avenue, a short distance from the public square.

At the time of the holdup all the tables in the dining room were filled. It is estimated that approximately 100 patrons were present.

BRITISH SEIZE TOWN IN JEWISH DISORDER

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Nov. 25.—Police battled today into the Jewish settlement of Shefayim, one of three localities surrounded yesterday after armed Jews wounded 14 officers in attacks on coast guard stations.

Curfew prevailed along the Palestinian coast, where the British were trying to stop illegal immigration. The British Sixth Airborne division had cordoned off Shefayim, Givat Haim and Rishbon.

Large crowds manned the barricades at Shefayim. Police attacked when they refused to disperse.

A British communiqué said "armed Jews" attacked the coast guard stations at Givat Olga and Sidiya Saturday night and added both stations were wrecked.

The disorders were believed to be connected with the capture of the Greek motor schooner Demetrios which brought 200 illegal Jewish immigrants to the coast.

John Bull Weary But Still Tough, Mackenzie Finds

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Well, just showing what a good prophet I am, here we are in London after flying the Atlantic, on the first leg of a world tour.

When I speak of "we" I'm not employing the editorial pronoun. I have a partner—an energetic and capable young woman—who will work with me on this assignment. Get your tongues out of your cheeks and meet Mrs. Mackenzie. From here on it will be the two of us.

Both of us have been busy combing the highways and byways of London since our arrival and our outstanding impression, apart from the battle-scars and terrible drabness, is that Britain's capital is very, very tired.

This isn't snap judgment on our part, for we know our England and her people from many years of residence here. Everywhere you go in the capital you see strain and great weariness registered on drawn faces.

When I was here in 1942 there were strained faces, too, for the war was at its height. But then you didn't notice the weariness so much because everybody was going all out for victory and the dangers and thrills of battle kept the country keyed up. But with war's end there has come a tremendous letdown. My partner and I spent considerable time yesterday talking with strangers whom we met here and there, and a woman bus conductor summed the position up rather well for us.

War Kept Them Going

"We are tired" she said—and her voice had that dead level which bespeaks intense weariness. "The war kept us going, but we thought that when peace came we should get relief from the hard times—but we haven't got it."

There was no bitterness in her tone—just tiredness which reflected the harsh privations which the people of this country still are enduring. Relief will come, but it is a good distance away as yet. The food isn't so good as it was when I was here in 1942, and such necessities as clothing and shoes are hard to get. Luxuries are a thing of the dim and distant past—except for the few folk who debase themselves by trading in the black market which persists despite the efforts of the law to abolish it.

One great reason why relief is slow in coming to the people of England is that the government is diverting a large measure of its effort to bolster John Bull's lean purse. Sir Stafford Cripps, chairman of the board of trade, has preached "austerity" so vigorously to the public that they call him Sir Austerity Cripps—a bit of humor which has a rather harsh connotation for the man in the street who has patches on his trousers.

Now don't get the wrong impression from what I've said. England is dog-tired, and more than a little disappointed because peace hasn't brought relief from the privations of war—but John Bull hasn't lost his fighting spirit. The situation as we see it here today reminds me of an incident I encountered in the first World War when I was attached to British general headquarters in France as war correspondent.

This went on for seven days and seven nights until the exhausted Tommies would drop in their tracks and fall asleep instantly when there was the slightest lull in the fighting. At the end of the week the Germans sent over a little balloon which had attached to it a note written in English, presumably by an officer who had lived in Britain. It read:

"Good old Fifty-first, still sticking it. Cheerio."

CANTEEN

of the Canteen Mr. Cleveland said today: "It is my opinion that the people of Marion county have enjoyed supporting the Canteen and the purpose for which it was established—to lift up the spirit and morale of our service men and women—was religiously adhered to. Marion owes the officers and personnel of the Canteen a debt of gratitude for their loyalty throughout the time they operated. Their loyalty and devotion to their task was not only an inspiration to the home people but was also the reason for the success of the Canteen and the popularity it enjoyed with the service people."

Mrs. Stephenson's letter to the Community Foundation head follows:

"The personnel of the Marion Service Canteen feel it advisable to discontinue the Marion Canteen 'Nov. 30th, due to the uncertainty and fewer number of troop trains which are passing through Marion."

"The schedule and stopping of the troop trains at this depot has made it very difficult to purchase the supplies and serve the troops satisfactorily."

"Sincerely,
"Mrs. O. G. Stephenson, chairman."

Officers serving with Mrs. Stephenson are Mrs. F. E. McKinney, co-chairman, K. Hamor, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Howard Guthrie, recording secretary; Bernard Moloney, treasurer.

Important Work

WASHINGTON—Little sympathy has been given them, but there are a number of Army officers with more than enough points for discharge who are stuck in Maj. Gen. Groves' atomic bomb project.

Most of them have been in the atomic bomb set-up since its inception and were "drafted" from the fields of engineering, science, management, law and journalism. The Army is holding on to them until the future of atomic energy is worked out by Congress and the picture of atomic energy and research production becomes clear.

THERE ARE NO "HIDDEN" STEEL PROFITS

United Steelworkers of America-CIO charges that steel companies piled up huge "hidden" profits during the war. It insists that the steel companies now can use their "swollen" wartime profits in order to pay a $225,000,000-a-year wage increase.

The Union's charge of "hidden" profits during the war is false. That was shown conclusively by the fact-finding panel of the National War Labor Board. In September, 1944, that government agency declared in an official report that what the Union calls "hidden" profits are necessary reserves, and that such reserves "are proper and cannot be considered as steel profits."

The truth about profits in the steel industry during the war is that they were not "swollen." They were less than in any good peacetime year! After all bills were paid, net earnings after taxes during the three war years, 1942 to 1944, represented an average return of 5 per cent on the money invested. That was a lower return on investment than in any peacetime year of high steel production.

There is no mystery about reserves in the steel industry. Workers as well as stockholders are protected by these reserves. Machines wear out and must be replaced. During the war the wear and tear under capacity operations was without precedent. When necessary reserves are not provided, any company will run down. Then there are fewer jobs, smaller pay checks. These principles of sound management apply to a one-man garage or any small business as well as to a million-dollar corporation.

Every cent that steel companies set aside for future needs is checked by your Government. Nothing can be hidden. The tax collectors, renegotiation boards, and many other government agencies have reviewed the figures year after year. They recognize reserves as an essential part of the cost of doing business.

Reserves set aside for wear and tear of facilities and for contingencies do not constitute a fund out of which wages can be paid. To do so would quickly exhaust the reservoir on which the steel companies depend for their future lives.

Any solution of the present wage-price issue in the steel industry must take into consideration these clearly established facts.
